Positive childhood experiences statistically linked to significant positive outcomes

Having at least two non-parent adults who genuinely cared

The sense that family is supportive during difficult times

Feeling supported by friends

Feeling safe and protected by an adult in the home

The enjoyment of participation in community traditions

Feeling a sense of belonging in high school

The ability to talk with family about feelings